5 Steps to a Healthier Heart

By: Allison Tannis
BSc MSc RHN

Go on and love your heart this February. It never stops; your heart beats every minute of every day. It's a hard worker that deserves a little appreciation. But, you can't give your heart flowers, or buy it jewellery for Valentine's Day. So, instead why not try giving your heart a little love with these five heart healthy gifts.

1 Get Movin'

Exercise really does prevent heart disease. There is scientific evidence linking regular physical activity with many measures of "heart" health. Research studies have shown that exercise can also reduce "bad" (LDL cholesterol) and total cholesterol levels, as well as elevate "good" (HDL cholesterol) cholesterol levels. Exercise also helps reduce blood pressure and encourages the body to shed excess weight.

2 Dial Down

Feeling a little 'stressed-out'? Mental stress can affect your heart. Even acute mental stress impairs the ability of blood vessels to function, and long-term stress causes blood vessels to weaken. Take some steps towards reducing stress in your life: breathe deeply, meditate, try yoga or tai chi.

Support heart health

Medi-C Plus™ from W.Gifford-Jones, MD combines Vitamin C & L-Lysine to build collagen. Collagen strengthens coronary cells to support cardiovascular health.

Promote cardiovascular health

Natural Factors® Vitamin K2 is a fat-soluble vitamin and new research shows that vitamin K deficiency may increase risk of bone loss and arterial calcification.

3 Tighten Up a Notch

Clothes a little tight? Is your belt only closing on a bigger notch? It's long been accepted that obesity is linked to heart problems. Just this past year, research out of the Netherlands confirmed that extra body weight contributes to high blood pressure, and an unhealthy heart. Being overweight or obese causes inflammation in blood vessels, oxidative stress and elevated blood pressure.

4 Cut Cholesterol

High cholesterol levels are considered a risk factor for heart disease. Eating fibre to help reduce cholesterol levels in your body is not news. Studies have found that people who consume 48-80 grams of whole grains per day had a 21% lower risk of cardiovascular disease and lower cholesterol.

5 Nourish Your Heart

What would be the healthy equivalent of a box of chocolates for your heart? Perhaps a box filled with olive oil, whole grains, fruits, vegetables and fish. Scientists have been noting for decades how such 'heart-healthy' foods in certain traditional diets are linked with lower rates of heart disease.

Five Major Risk Factors for Heart Disease:

1. Sedentary lifestyle	4. Obesity
2. High blood pressure	5. Abnormal valves/blood lipids
3. Smoking
