WHY SHOP Locally?

5 SURPRISING WAYS YOUR HEALTH BENEFITS FROM SHOPPING LOCALLY:

Vibrant Local Retail Linked with Healthier Citizens: Communities with a vibrant array of small local retailers are healthier according to studies. When researchers studied 3,060 counties in the United States, they found those with a greater proportion of small businesses had lower rates of mortality, obesity and diabetes.

Local Is Good for Our Environment: Shopping accounts for 1 in 5 trips we take. The average household drove 2000 km for shopping in the late 1970s. Today, we drive about 5500 km. What has changed? Big stores need big spaces and as such tend to be farther from our neighbourhoods, prompting us to hop into our cars and drive a ways to shop.

Shopping Locally Gets You Outside & Active: Local shops tend to be smaller and nestled into communities, encouraging you to get outside and be active. You are more likely to walk to a local retailer and walking is great for your health. Walking outside helps manage weight and promotes heart health. In addition, according to a 2011 study, outdoor activity also results in an improvement in mental wellbeing (increased energy, positive engagement, decreases tension, anger and depression).

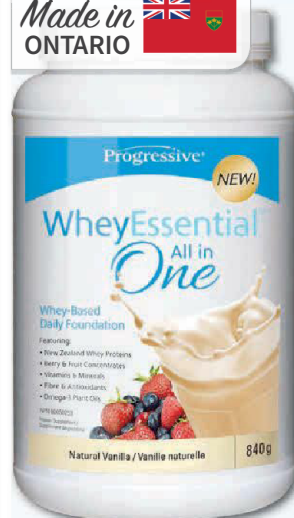

Local Donors Promote Healthy Communities: Non-profit organizations receive an average 250% more support from smaller business owners than they do from large businesses. Non-profit organizations support our health in many ways including mental health (help lines, support groups) and physical health (sports teams, breakfast and food programs).

Better Service Means Better Health: Local businesses often hire people with a good understanding of the products they are selling and take time to get to know customers. This is a vital asset, particularly at a health food store, when you are looking for a supplement to optimize your personal health, seeking foods that work with your family's food allergies or the perfect beauty product for your loved ones' sensitive skin.
